Alternate Modes of Communication

Using information gathered in Communications Systems Supporting Essential Functions provide alternative modes of communication. Communication systems already in place can be named as alternate modes for other modes of communication. For example, radios could be an alternative mode of communication for voice lines.

| Communication System | Current Provider | Alternative Provider | Alternative Mode #1 | Alternative Mode #2 |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| | | | | |
| | | | | |
| | | | | |
| | | | | |
| | | | | |
| | | | | |
| | | | | |
| | | | | |
| | | | | |
| | | | | |